

Happy Birthday Nathan

S. Robert Powell <srp18407@gmail.com>

10:
41
AM

to Nathan, bcc: Donald W. Powell II

August 20, 2024

Nathan:

Happy Seventeenth Birthday! How quickly the years fly by. It seems like it was only yesterday that you were born.

It looks to me like you are going to be taller than your father. Maybe you're taller than him already?

Hope your driver's test went well and that you are now a licensed driver. How well I remember the day (probably in 1959) that I took my driver's test--over 60 years ago!

The "dig out" following that grotesque storm of a few days ago is underway, and, hopefully in a couple of days things will be back to normal. A trailer with a tractor on it arrived at the golf course this morning just as I was getting up, and I'm quite sure that your father is, right now, giving that tractor a good workout as he "makes disappear" all those rocks and debris in the front yard.

Attached are some family photos that you will, I'm sure, enjoy looking at. Believe it or not, your Grandfather Powell and your Great Uncle Robert were, once upon a time, little boys!

Today is your day! I hope it is enjoyable and memorable in a hundred ways.

Best Always,

Uncle Robert

